PIET SWIJNENBURG

"When I was a little boy I went with my father on his truck several times and we sometimes came to the office of customers. At some companies they had a model truck. I often stood there marveling at them".

ALB. SWIJNENBURG

Quite recently, the third WSI model was delivered to Alb. Swijnenburg from Ottoland. After a DAF CF box truck with crane and trailer and the DAF XF truck with mega trailer, it was time for the DAF Space Cab with curtain side trailer.

We speak to Pieter Swijnenbrug (40), he is third generation within the family business and is responsible for the day-to-day management. "With sixteen cars we provide steel distribution and we do construction logistics in the broadest sense of the word. For example, we place a lot of glass and chain with our crane trucks. With the open trucks it can be anything with special dimensions".

MARVEL

Pieter's interest in models starts at an early age. "When I was a little boy I went with my father on his truck several times and we sometimes came to the office of customers. At some companies they had a model truck. I often stood there marveling at them". In 2012 he came into contact with WSI models. "I thought it would be nice to have models from my own transport company that I could then give to customers to put in the office. What I wanted to give away had to be a realistic representation of the trucks I drove. That was hard to find in the market at the time." Pieter comes into contact with WSI through his brother's transport company.

"We had just started lifting work with a Jib. Something I wanted to bring to the attention of my clients. At that same time WSI started with the development of the Jib. We also just had a new 3-axle extendable Jumbo trailer. WSI developed this trailer around the same time and that brought everything together. I was able to go to customers with a detailed version of our combination”.

WELL RECEIVED

“You come across them in the strangest places and it immediately opens up the conversation. Because the DAF CF was so well received, I wanted to create scale models more often. The purchase of the Low-deck truck with trailer was a good reason to create a scale-model and bring it to the attention. The enthusiasm of the WSI salesman helped with this process, After the exploratory discussion about which combinations could be made, a quotation followed. Then photos were taken of the truck and trailer. The second time it concerned a DAF XF SSC with an extendable flat trailer for the transport of all kinds of construction products and machines. After a few months, detailed working drawings followed. I checked those carefully and together with the salesman we have some consultations about the final possibilities and details. We aim for 100%. This is not always realistic for something that is 50 times smaller, but it does come close,” says Pieter.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGE

There were 7 years between the first and second model. “I didn’t want that anymore after the Low Deck truck in 2019”. As a surprise, he therefore left a third car out in 2022 make a fleet. This time a DAF XF space cab with three axle curtain side trailer. “I use the models as a Christmas gift for my drivers. They can choose between a traditional Christmas gift or a scale model. That way I don’t force anyone into something they don’t want to have. Nevertheless, 90% opted for the scale model”. He therefore receives a lot of praise from the staff. “Employees take a piece of pride home with them and the model often gets a prominent place in the house”. Pieter mentions the additional advantage that when someone has grown tired of it or has lost the bond with the company, there is always an amount of money in return on a second-hand site or a swap meeting.

It is difficult to determine whether the models have actually generated extra work, but Pieter is especially proud to see that his trucks are somewhere in a showcase or on a desk.

This all started with that little boy who went along with his father and saw a scale model somewhere.

DRIVEN BY CHALLENGE

De Rooy Transport and WSI Models, two Dutch companies with a great history of collaboration, have once again joined forces. This time to develop a unique scale model of de Rooy's truck transport combinations. The model was specially made on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of de Rooy Transport.

De Rooy approached us with the question of replicating their truck transporter combinations as a scale model. Of course, we already build the IVECO Dakar trucks from de Rooy's fleet, but this was a challenge of a completely different order. But just like the slogan of the family business "Not possible, doesn't exist", that certainly applies to us too. We have sunk our teeth into it and the results are impressive.

De Rooy's truck transport combinations are designed and produced in-house, are suitable for transporting three tractors and have a movable deck. The scale model is made of diecast and is very detailed.

CHOICE OF FIVE MODELS

A total of five models were produced, a DAF XD, XG, CF, an IVECO S-Way and a Volvo FH. The first models were presented last weekend during the anniversary. A limited number of all variants will also be available to collectors. The models can now be reserved at your WSI dealer with the article numbers below.

Pieter Both

Sales Manager

"We are proud that we were allowed to develop this model. De Rooy is one of the leading transport companies in the Netherlands and their truck transport combinations are unique."
